MEMORANDUM

TO: Mayor and Members of the City Council

FROM: Erin Harris, City Attorney

DATE: January 20, 2026

RE: Addressing Illegal and “Gray-Area” Gambling Operations in the City of La Junta

I. Purpose of This Memorandum

This memorandum is intended to:

1. Provide City Council with background on the emergence of “skilled gaming” or “gray casino” operations in Colorado municipalities;
 2. Summarize the experience of the City of Pueblo and other Colorado cities in responding to these operations;
 3. Explain the public safety concerns associated with such establishments and why La Junta police leadership has raised early concerns;
 4. Present and explain the draft Chapter 9.10 – Gambling Devices ordinance prepared at the request of LJPD Chief Todd Quick; and
 5. Clarify why effective response to this issue requires multiple, coordinated ordinances and enforcement tools, rather than a single code amendment.

II. Background: Emergence of “Skilled Gaming” Operations

In recent years, municipalities across Colorado have seen the rise of businesses operating electronic gaming machines that closely resemble slot machines but are marketed as lawful “skill-based” or “contest” games. These operations often argue that because a player must make a selection, respond within a timed window, or recognize visual patterns, the machines are based on skill rather than chance and therefore fall outside Colorado’s gambling prohibitions.

This business model is intentionally designed to exploit perceived ambiguity. The machines are typically located in small storefronts, fraternal organizations, or secondary spaces and are frequently accompanied by assertions that they are not gambling establishments, despite the exchange of money and the awarding of cash or prizes of value.

Colorado law, however, does not recognize this distinction. The Colorado Constitution defines prohibited “simulated gambling devices” to include machines where outcomes are determined by skill, chance, or both. As a result, the presence of a skill component does not exempt an activity from gambling prohibitions.

Nevertheless, enforcement has become increasingly complex as operators rely on the “skilled gaming” narrative to delay or resist local action.

III. Pueblo’s Experience and Enforcement Rationale

The City of Pueblo provides the most developed example of how Colorado municipalities have responded to these operations.

A. Ordinance Adoption and Enforcement Actions

In 2024, Pueblo City Council adopted a municipal ordinance expressly prohibiting illegal gambling operations as a city offense. This action followed reports from the Pueblo Police Department of increasing crime and quality-of-life issues associated with establishments operating electronic gambling machines.

Since adoption of that ordinance, Pueblo authorities have:

- Executed multiple search warrants at gambling locations;
- Seized dozens of electronic gambling machines and significant amounts of cash;
- Issued citations for electronic gambling;
- Ordered temporary closures of certain establishments; and
- Destroyed seized machines following court proceedings where defendants pled guilty or were found guilty.

B. Public Safety Findings

Pueblo’s enforcement actions were driven by public safety concerns, not merely regulatory compliance. Pueblo Police Department leadership has publicly stated that locations operating these machines were associated with:

- Violent crimes, including homicide and aggravated assault;
- Drug overdoses;
- Robberies and property crimes; and
- Ongoing quality-of-life impacts on surrounding neighborhoods.

Chiefs and city officials have emphasized that these establishments became focal points for criminal activity over time, making early intervention critical.

IV. Legal Challenges and Ongoing Litigation

Operators affected by Pueblo’s actions, as well as similar actions in Colorado Springs and Grand Junction, have filed lawsuits asserting that their machines constitute lawful “skilled gaming” and alleging improper seizure and forfeiture.

These cases are in early stages. Importantly, the litigation does not dispute that municipalities possess police powers to regulate gambling; rather, it focuses on procedural and constitutional claims related to enforcement methods. Municipalities continue to enforce their ordinances while courts address these broader questions.

V. Relevance to the City of La Junta

The La Junta Police Department has expressed concern that similar operations may seek to establish themselves within the City by relying on the same “skilled gaming” arguments seen elsewhere in Colorado.

Based on Pueblo’s experience, the concern is not hypothetical. The risk is that once such an establishment begins operating, it can quickly become associated with increased calls for service, crime, and neighborhood impacts. Addressing the issue after these impacts arise is significantly more difficult than preventing establishment in the first instance.

VI. Draft Ordinance: Chapter 9.10 – Gambling Devices

At the request of the Mayor and Police Chief, I have prepared a draft ordinance adding Chapter 9.10 – Gambling Devices to Title 9 of the La Junta Municipal Code.

This draft ordinance:

- Aligns municipal definitions of gambling, gambling devices, simulated gambling devices, and slot machines with existing state statutes and the Colorado Constitution;
- Expressly prohibits possession, operation, facilitation, and promotion of illegal gambling devices within the City;
- Provides authority for seizure and safekeeping of illegal devices for evidentiary purposes;
- Authorizes the Municipal Court to order disposition of devices upon final judgment; and

- Preserves exemptions for gambling activities expressly authorized by state law.

For ease of review, the draft includes bracketed authority references showing where each provision tracks state law or existing La Junta code provisions. These references are intended for internal review and would be removed prior to final adoption.

Standing alone, this ordinance establishes a clear local prohibition and enforcement baseline. However, it does not replicate the full set of tools that have allowed Pueblo to act quickly and decisively.

VII. Why Multiple Ordinances and Tools Are Required

Pueblo's ability to respond rapidly is the result of several coordinated legal mechanisms, not a single ordinance. To achieve comparable effectiveness, La Junta would need to consider adoption of additional measures, including:

1. Criminal Code Provisions
The Chapter 9.10 ordinance establishes the foundational offense and aligns local law with state gambling prohibitions.
2. Administrative Closure Authority
Pueblo can administratively shut down premises operating illegal gambling devices without waiting for prolonged criminal proceedings.
3. Civil Nuisance and Injunction Authority
Pueblo can seek court orders declaring gambling premises a public nuisance and enjoining continued operation.
4. Civil Forfeiture Posture Independent of Conviction
Pueblo's code and enforcement posture allow for seizure and forfeiture of illegal devices and proceeds through civil processes, reducing reliance on criminal convictions alone.

Each component serves a different function. Together, they allow law enforcement and the City to intervene early, remove machines from operation, and prevent establishments from reopening under slightly altered business models.

VIII. Proposed Process and Next Steps

The recommended approach is a phased process:

1. Council Review of Chapter 9.10
Review and refine the draft gambling ordinance as the foundational step.

2. Direction to Prepare Additional Ordinances

If Council wishes to pursue a Pueblo-style enforcement model, direction would be needed to draft ordinances addressing administrative closure, nuisance injunctions, and forfeiture authority.

3. Coordination with Police and Municipal Court

Ensure that any adopted provisions align with existing municipal court procedures and enforcement capacity.

4. Public Transparency and Legal Review

Maintain clear findings and statutory alignment to reduce litigation risk and support enforcement actions.

IX. Conclusion

The draft gambling ordinance before Council addresses the specific request made by the Mayor and Police Chief to establish a clear municipal prohibition aligned with state law. It is a necessary first step, but not a complete solution.

Experience from Pueblo demonstrates that addressing gray-area gambling operations effectively requires a coordinated legal framework that allows the City to act quickly, remove devices from operation, and prevent re-establishment. If La Junta wishes to achieve similar results, additional ordinances will be required, and work on those components is ongoing.

Please let me know if Council would like this matter scheduled for a study session, ordinance introduction, or further briefing.
